

2009 Christmas Party

The Club held its annual Christmas Party on December 5th at the Oran White Civic Center in Tool with 31 members present. I believe that I counted three Model A's that some brave souls drove (it was pretty cool that morning) to the party.

We had a very brief meeting at 11:00 o'clock followed by some great food and fun. Our main course this year was barbeque ribs and brisket from Extreme Barbeque, which was quite tasty and a nice deviation from turkey and ham. The ladies outdid themselves this year with all sorts of sides and desserts. If anyone went away hungry it was certainly their own fault. The food was excellent and there was plenty of it.

Tickets were drawn throughout the day for some ten or twelve door prizes, but it was the "white elephant gift exchange" that was the most fun for everyone. There were several items that exchanged hands three times, but then was a couple that you just couldn't give away. Obviously the gifts are supposed to be comical and fun items, but the real fun is to watch this many of our members sitting in a circle laughing at themselves and each other. It was a hoot!

I'm already looking forward to next year's party.
